Summary

A curiosity driven individual who thrives on innovation and continuous learning. My background in child development and tourism taught me how to engage with people and create tailored solutions, but my passion for discovery led me to software development where I truly belong.

I started with HTML & CSS, then advanced to JavaScript and Front-end Development. I want to explore new technologies like React, Vue.js, and Angular to build dynamic applications. Now, I'm diving deeper into backend development to become a Full Stack Developer.

For me, software development is an exciting journey fueled by curiosity and a passion for new ideas. Every day, I push my limits, adapt, and grow, immersing myself in the tech world to create meaningful and impactful solutions.
